

OUR NEW GOODS

FOR

FALL AND WINTER

Are coming in daily. Along all lines our stock will soon be complete. Our buying has been very discriminating in all respects.

First; We have constantly kept in mind the fact that people want good quality in everything. That the shoddy article is most economical, no matter how cheap, everybody knows. We boast that we have left it off (the shoddy article) we haven't got it in any line.

Second: We have exerted ourselves to buy good quality at cheap prices. That we have succeeded we ask the privilege to prove to you. Inspect our stock and allow us to quote you prices and we will convince you that these things are true. We take great pleasure in showing you through our lines.

Third: We have bought what you want and need, In order to suit everybody we have a variety of every kind of goods. You will find what you are looking for in our stock.

Our bid for your trade is based on the above good reasons. No matter what you want we offer you the best quality at the lowest prices.

PICKENS, S. C. :

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3 1907.

Ganderbone's Oct. Forecast.

Copyright 1907 by C. H. Rieth.

Welcome, welcome, sweet October, when the quail shall whistle shrill, when the coal man gets in action with his pesky little bill; when the frost and pumpkin poets sing the old familiar strains, and the foot-ball gladitors scramble each others brains.

Doubly welcome, hallowed season, When the wild goose travels space, When the hunter in the wildwood Shoots the rabbit in the face.

When the last years hat made over Shows up in the new fall stock, And the bug-fed turkey shudders Every time he sees the block.

Secretary Taft will be the leading presidential candidate for the month. He will reach Japan on his trip around the world, and when he steps ashore, the island will tip up. The Mikado will have him lifted to the Imperial Roof Garden with block and tackle, and the populace will hold the roof up while Bill and Matsuhito eat rice cake together and open a bottle of aski to the continued amity of nations.

In our own country, President Roosevelt will proceed on his annual fresh water cruise. He will go down the Mississippi from Keokuk to Memphis, while cheering multitudes congregate on the banks and count his front teeth. Uncle Joe Cannon will buy another thousand feet of lightning rod, buckwheat cakes will renew their tug-of-war with Epsom salts on the innards of man, and the cost of living will take a bird's-eye view of the economic proposition.

The autumn nights inspiring shall grow a little longer, and the breath of fall on cider sweet shall grow a little stronger. The husbandman shall sell his hogs and think to prosper on it, but the good housewife will take the dough and buy a winter bonnet.

County fairs will be in full blast, The heavy fragrance of roasted peanuts will decoy the cautious nickel from the pants pocket of the loving swain. The toy balloon will drag the small boy around the grounds. The man with a long awning on his cap will sit on the tail of the winged-footed trotter and slap her around the track with a barrel stave. The man in red underwear will rise in a balloon hanging by the toe nails, and the family that Roosevelt is enthusiastic about will weave through the crowd tied on a clothes-line.

The husky huskers of the corn

Will thrill his little ballad,

The raccoon in the forest deep

Will eat persimmon salad.

The robin-rebreast growing chilled,

Will slowly southward flutter.

And the angels in the skies will catch The scent of apple butter.

The moon will be full on the 21st. Campers will go off to the woods to play poker all night and sleep all day. Hog-killing time will fill the hog with concern about his near future, and he will hustle around after acorns in philosophic enjoyment of his last few days.

The foot-ball rooster, full of root, will go off on his Autumn toot; the player with the college hair, the while the horns and trumpets blare, will butt around till he is thrown and some one breaks his collarbone. The lusty sound of rah-rah-rahs will urge the fell and bloody cause; the girls in mass and coors come, will sing and scream and swallow gum. The giant fullback, fierce and stout, will pick a little fellow out, kick in his slats and change his face, and maul him up and down the place, and when the foe shall cease to breath, will proudly claim a victors' wreath.

The farmer with the mortgage.

Who is prone to giving notes

Will figure up the proceeds.

From his corn and wheat and oats,

And wonder if his cash in hand

Will pull him out the hole

Or whether he will have to give

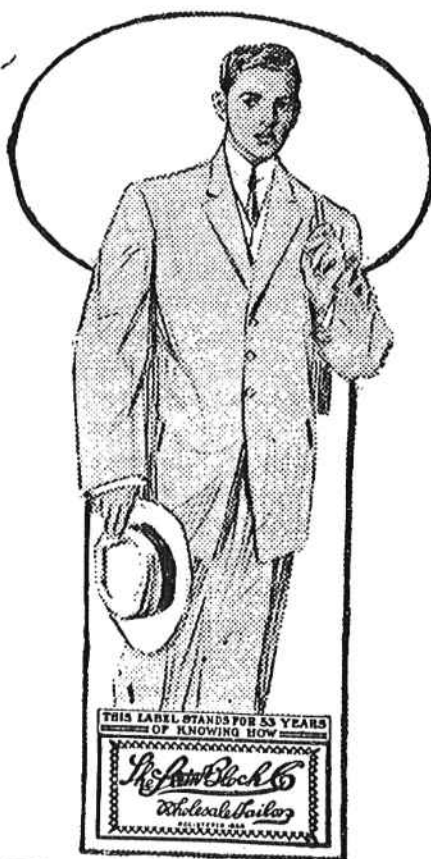

A "mortgage on his soul."

The hunting season will keep the rabbit on the wing and the quail on the jump. The crack shot from town will range into the country with his burr-proof gun and hammerless corduroys. He will flush a bird and almost hit a cow, and then buy his game from a native who sports a bored out army musket.

The Amalgamated Game Self-Preservation Society will require all hunters to carry a large license tag so that all game may know when it is being legally shot at.

The baseball fan will lose his job, the highball fiend is broke, the mothball fiend is now abroad spreading odors thick as smoke. The ice-cream soda has fizzed out, the ice man slacks his pace, the small boy saves his nickels now to buy a comic face. For Hallowe'en will soon be here with pumpkin spooks and pranks, and if the hoodlums pass us up we surely may give thanks.

THE YOUNG MAN

Cuts a big figure planned for or business tastes, and not So Stein-Block have made specially designed sack suits and overcoats for him, in style adapted to his exacting demands in dress. We believe they are what he has been searching for and ask him to call in and find out.

Reco[Shirts, best made $1 to $1.50.
